

RESTORATIVE JUSTICE

psychology ◦ criminal justice ◦ socio-neuroscience

Speakers

Prof. Mikhail Lyubansky
The University of Illinois

Prof. Theo Gavrielides
RJ4All International Institute

Mr. Leonard Keith Ng
Lutheran Community Care Services

Prof. Deborah Denno
Fordham University

Prof. Ivo Aertsen
Leuven Institute of Criminology

Prof. Miranda Forsyth
Australian National University

Prof. Di Xiaohua
Nanjing University

Prof. Dennis Wong
City University of HK

Conference date: 10 December 2022
10:00 a.m. – 5:00 p.m.

Restorative Justice (RJ) offers an alternative form of justice to both offenders and victims. The study of its practice encompasses the knowledge in the criminal justice system, psychology, criminology, and socio-neuroscience.

The Conference offers an opportunity when the power of restorative justice is explored and shared by seasoned scholars & practitioners.

WHO SHOULD ATTEND

Mediators, lawyers, teachers, social workers, academics, etc.

VENUE

RLB303, Lecture Theatre
Hong Kong Shue Yan
University

Concurrently on zoom

REGISTRATION

Register by scanning the code
or through the link:

<https://forms.gle/eGkFHPQZNP6ie8nz7>

Conference Schedule

Keynote Speech

Positive Psychology and Restoration

Prof. Mikhail Lyubansky, The University of Illinois, USA

Restorative Justice or Therapy?

Prof. Theo Gavrielides, RJ4All International Institute, UK

RJ Practices in Singapore

Mr Leonard Keith Ng, Lutheran Community Care Services Ltd, Singapore

Afternoon Session(online)

Law, Criminal Justice and Neuroscience

Prof. Deborah Denno, Neuroscience and Law Center, Fordham University, USA

Building a Legal Framework in the Practice of RJ

Prof. Ivo Aertsen, Leuven Institute of Criminology, Belgium

Restorative Justice and Institutional Hybridity

Prof. Miranda Forsyth, Australian National University, Australia

Afternoon Plenary Session (online)

RJ Practice in China

Prof. Di Xiaohua, Nanjing University, China

The Latest Development of RJ in Hong Kong & China

Prof. Dennis Wong, City University of Hong Kong